Emory University Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

The purpose of the Executive Leadership Council is to provide support and guidance toward achieving strategic goals for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion. As a guiding principle, we want diversity and inclusion to achieve its goals of promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion in all aspects of the University. This month, April 2022, we recognize Autism Awareness Month and National Arab-American Heritage Month. In collaboration with campus partners, we have curated resources that highlight, educate, and celebrate these important communities and issues.

Arab American National Museum
Arab American Heritage Month 2022 - History Channel
External Resources

Emory Autism Center
Emory University Office of Diversity Equity and Inclusion

Thank you to our wonderful and generous sponsors: Laura Nadine Dooley, a world-class violinist will speak about her experience with autism on April 21st at 6:30 pm in the Emory Student Center. Last year we had an amazing turnout for our student panel. This year, we have a special guest: Matt Zeller, Executive Director of Autism Speaks. The event will take place on April 21st at 5:00 pm in the Emory Student Center. Click here for more info!

Click here for more info!

Autistic Student Panel: Come to the Quad at Emory University (by the Library) to witness a showcase of autistic talent. Learn the numerous ways autism can color someone's life! The event is scheduled for April 21st at 6:30 pm in the Emory Student Center. Register here.

Click here to join our zoom!

Emory's office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion is reading Haben: The Deafblind Woman Who斗 for Her Rights, Defied ODDS, and Changed the World by Haben Girma. The office is hosting a book club discussion on April 29th at noon. The event is scheduled for April 29th at noon in the Emory Student Center. Register here.

Principle Leadership in Perilous Times: Organized by Dean's Professor of Spirituality, Ethics and Leadership Walter Earl Fluker, the conference is scheduled for April 22nd. The event will take place from 9 am to 5 pm at Candler School of Theology. Learn more and register: www.candlerthurmanconference.com.

The Goizueta Business School Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion is hosting a discussion on April 14th at 4 pm in the Emory Student Center. The event is scheduled for April 14th at 4 pm in the Emory Student Center. Register here.

The Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion is reading A Controversial Life: The Life and Times of Georgia’s Most Infamous Law Enforcement Officer by Todd Golden. The office is hosting a discussion on April 22nd. The event is scheduled for April 22nd in the Emory Student Center. Register here.

Emory University’s Muslim community will host its annual Emory Arabian Nights banquet on April 4th. The event will take place from 6:30 pm to 10 pm at the Emory Student Center. The event is scheduled for April 4th at 6:30 pm at the Emory Student Center. Guests should register by emailing ODEI@emory.edu.

Emory’s inaugural John Lewis Chair, Darren Hutchinson, addresses "anti-Blackness in the Civil Rights Movement." Hutchinson, a professor of law and the inaugural John Lewis Chair for Civil Rights and Social Justice, was appointed in 2020 and is the first Black scholar to hold the title. Hutchinson’s research focuses on civil rights and social justice issues, including the intersection of race and disability rights. His work has been recognized with several awards and honors. Hutchinson’s work has been published in leading law journals and his writing has been featured in national and international media outlets. Hutchinson is also an author and advocate for civil rights. Through his writing and advocacy, Hutchinson aims to promote social justice and equality for all individuals, regardless of race, gender, or disability. Hutchinson’s work is an inspiration to many and he is a valuable addition to the Emory community. His contributions to civil rights and social justice are noteworthy and his presence at Emory will undoubtedly make a positive impact on the campus and beyond.