National Arab American Heritage Month

INSIGHT

National Arab American Heritage Month (NAHAM) is a time for celebrating the heritage, histories, and values of the diverse communities of Arab Americans. In 2021, Rep. Debbie Dingell (D-MI) and Rep. Rashida Tlaib (D-MI) introduced a resolution—H.Res. 710—to recognize Arab Americans’ contributions to the United States. By supporting this resolution, you are going one step closer to seeing this milestone materialize. Our efforts this year are geared to raise the level of awareness here on campus and elsewhere in Emory to stimulate conversations. To see our value for our campus and our nation, it is essential for us to forge ahead and stand together.

The Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion of Emory University celebrates the rich tapestry of human experiences at Emory University. This month, Emory has planned a number of engaging virtual events, centered around diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Department of Title IX

Office of Title IX

Emory University’s Department of Title IX promotes an environment that is conducive to intellectual engagement, learning, and working. We seek to facilitate a positive campus community that is conducive to intellectual engagement, learning, and working. Essentially, we seek to facilitate a positive and inclusive campus community, where each individual feels safe, respected, and included.

According to federal law—and pursuant to our values of equity, diversity, respect, human dignity, and inclusion—we have a responsibility to investigate and address reports of sexual misconduct.

Department of Title IX

Emory University’s Department of Title IX is committed to making sure that each and every person feels safe, respected, and included. We value the contributions of individuals with a sexual orientation or gender identity. This includes individuals who experience sexual harassment, sexual assault, or gender-based violence. The Office of Title IX serves to provide training and education to the campus community on how to prevent sexual harassment, sexual assault, or gender-based violence. We are committed to providing an environment where each individual feels safe, respected, and included.

Emory University is an equal opportunity/equal access/affirmative action employer fully committed to achieving a diverse workforce and complies with all applicable federal and state laws. Inquiries should be directed to the Department of Equity and Inclusion, 201 Dowman Drive, Administration Bldg, Atlanta, GA 30322. Telephone: 404-727-9867 (V) | 404-712-2049.

Email: diversity_con@emory.edu; Phone: 404-727-9867 (V) | 404-712-2049; Fax: 404-727-6034

National Autism Awareness Month

Emory Autism Center

Virtual Happy Hour

Please join us for our 3rd event in celebration of Autism Acceptance Month at Emory University. Let's take a break from our new normal to socialize. We invite parents, family members, community allies, and autism advocates to meet new members of our village and to build Meaningful Connections and Inclusion.

As our series continues, I hope that you all are able to join us on April 22 for a Virtual Closing Keynote! Dr. Todd S. Gerber will be joining us as our Opening Keynote Speaker. Dr. Gerber, President of the Organization for Autism Research, will be sharing his experience in the autism community and reflecting on the growth of autism awareness in recent years. He will also share his reflections on the challenges faced by autistic individuals and their families, and provide insights on how we can work together to create a more inclusive and accepting society for all.

A Reflection - National Autism Awareness Month

Get to Know 5 Notable Arab Americans

The Center for Arab American Philanthropy is proud to present its Educator’s Curriculum Kit, which explores the contributions and experiences of notable Arab Americans. This kit provides educators with valuable resources and tools to incorporate Arab American history and culture into their lesson plans and curricula.

Celebrate Arab American Heritage Month

Arab American Institute

In recognition of the contributions of Arab Americans, the Arab American Institute recently introduced a resolution—H.Res. 710—to honor Arab Americans’ contributions to the United States. The resolution calls for the establishment of a National Arab American Heritage Month, which would take place in April. The Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion encourages all individuals to participate in the celebration and to learn more about the contributions of Arab Americans.

Sexual Assault Awareness Month

Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

The Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (ODEI) is committed to addressing reports of sexual misconduct. We are dedicated to creating a safe and respectful environment for all members of the Emory community. As part of our commitment to preventing sexual assault, we have partnered with the National Sexual Violence Resource Center to launch a Sexual Assault Prevention and Awareness campaign. This campaign aims to increase awareness and promote sexual assault prevention and education.

Emory University’s Department of Title IX is committed to making sure that each and every person feels safe, respected, and included. We value the contributions of individuals with a sexual orientation or gender identity. This includes individuals who experience sexual harassment, sexual assault, or gender-based violence. The Office of Title IX serves to provide training and education to the campus community on how to prevent sexual harassment, sexual assault, or gender-based violence. We are committed to providing an environment where each individual feels safe, respected, and included.

Emory University is an equal opportunity/equal access/affirmative action employer fully committed to achieving a diverse workforce and complies with all applicable federal and state laws. Inquiries should be directed to the Department of Equity and Inclusion, 201 Dowman Drive, Administration Bldg, Atlanta, GA 30322. Telephone: 404-727-9867 (V) | 404-712-2049.

Email: diversity_con@emory.edu; Phone: 404-727-9867 (V) | 404-712-2049; Fax: 404-727-6034